A LIST OF BOOKS IN LARGE TYPE.

The circumstances that led to the collection of the books listed below are given in detail in an article by the Librarian, entitled "Books for Tired Eyes," published in The Yale Review for January, 1917.

The collection is gathered on separate sections of shelving in the Open Shelf Room and is in constant use by the many who like to read print that is clear and of satisfactory size. Most of the type is 12-point, some of it leaded and some set solid, and there is a variety in style, both old and modern.

The form of entry in the list below is a novelty, devised for this particular purpose. The size of the type, the leading or its absence, and the style, are stated as a matter of course. The size (in inches), including all three dimensions, and the weight, are given because books in large print are often large and heavy, making it difficult to hold them in the hand. This is therefore an important particular for the intending reader or purchaser.

The thanks of the Library are due to Mr. A. E. Schanuel, of the Buxton and Skinner Printing and Stationery Co., who has personally examined each of the listed volumes and reported on the size and style of the type and the character of the composition. Specimens of type will be found on the opposite page.

Suggestions for a second edition of this list, including additional titles, are asked from all those interested.

ARTHUR E. BOSTWICK, Librarian.
